

Dr Arman is a holistic and caring GP who has been a core member in the founding of the clinic. He feels part of the Diamond Creek community and plans to stay here for many years to come. He is experienced in diagnosing complex conditions and managing mental health issues but his interests in medicine are quite broad from paediatrics to chronic pain.

He will always do his absolute best at being thorough and making sure you feel listened to.

Outside of medicine, he has too many hobbies but just to list a few: building and playing guitars, cinematography, music, cars, video games, miniatures, powerlifting, and archery
