

the local doctor.

Dr. Macbell is a compassionate and highly skilled general practitioner with a focus on modern medicine across diverse medical areas. Holding a prestigious Fellowship of RACGP (FRACGP), he is committed to providing contemporary and comprehensive medical solutions. As a distinguished member of the Skin Cancer College of Australasia (SCCA), American Academy of Aesthetic Medicine (AAA) and the ADHD medical community, Dr. Macbell specializes in skin cancer management and diagnosing/managing ADHD patients.

With extensive experience in general practice, emergency departments, and aged care services, Dr. Macbell possesses a deep understanding of various medical conditions and holistic management. He excels in elderly care and chronic disease management, ensuring his patients receive dedicated attention and support.

Collaborating closely with leading psychiatrists, he effectively diagnoses and manages ADHD while combining this expertise with his general practice knowledge. This enables Dr. Macbell to offer comprehensive healthcare that caters to a wide range of medical needs.

Remaining at the forefront of preventive medicine and neurodevelopmental care, Dr. Macbell's rigorous training through the SCCA equips him with advanced insights for early skin cancer detection and treatment. Collaborations with psychiatrists strengthen his ADHD diagnosis and management approach.

Apart from clinical work, Dr. Macbell actively contributes to medical education by mentoring graduates and students, guiding them through general practice, skin cancer care, and ADHD management.
